

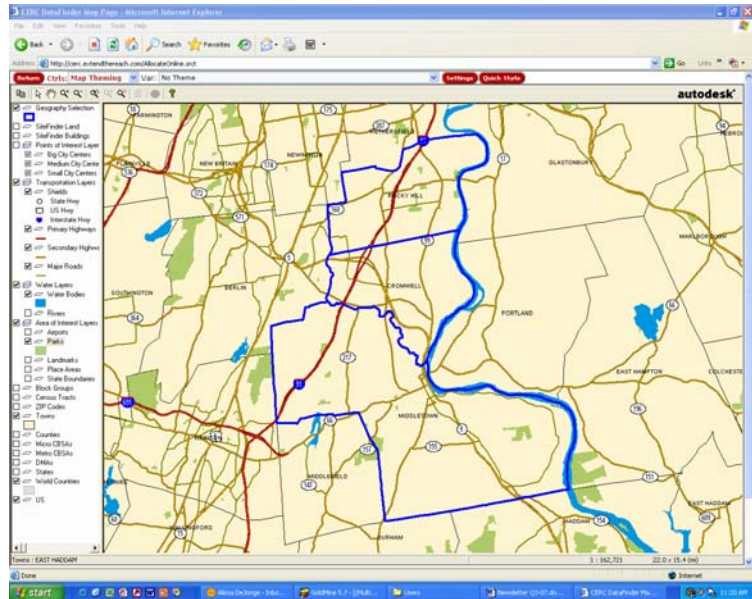

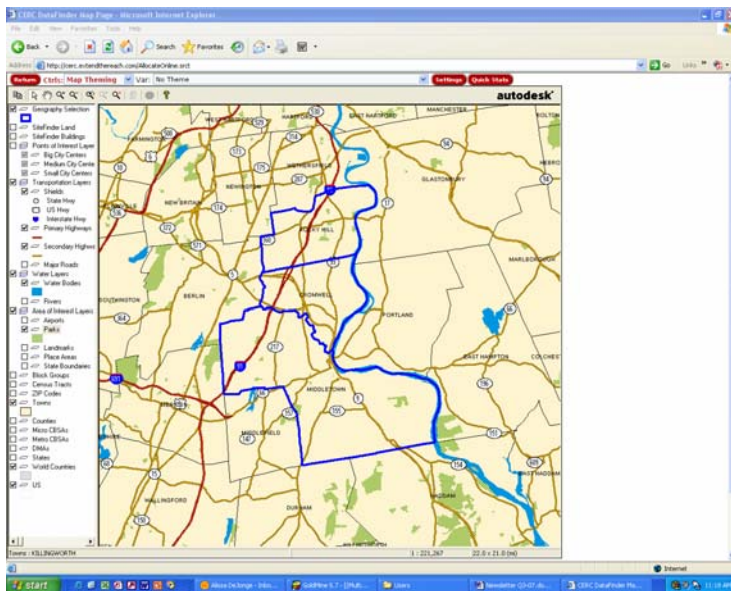

Mapping with CERC DataFinder®

Once you select a geography in DataFinder, users can create reports and maps. The latest version of DataFinder has two map options: standard and publisher. The standard map, as seen on the right, fills the screen and shows a more zoomed-in view. The publisher map, seen below, is square and shows a larger area. Either map can be pasted into documents such as Word and PowerPoint. This latest enhancement to DataFinder allows users to have additional mapping format choices.

Standard - full browser map

Publisher - square map for optimal exporting

DataFinder Free Trials for Prospective Users

Do you know someone who may be interested in using DataFinder? Please let us know at datafinder@cerc.com because we are offering two-week free trials of DataFinder on a first come, first served basis through November.
